

TALKING ON THE STRIKE QUESTION

Miners Are at Hazleton To Decide What To Do.

THEYMAYHOLDOUT

President Mitchell Talks To Delegates Importance of Meeting.

A DOUBTFUL ISSUE

Hazleton, Pa., May 14.—The convention of the United Mine Workers are considering the proposition to make the present strike in the anthracite district permanent, began today. President Mitchell in addressing the delegates said: "You are going to decide a most important movement to the coal industry and perhaps the most important labor movement of the world."

At Hazleton this morning the situation regarding the continuation of the present total suspension of work in the anthracite coal fields of Pennsylvania was a trifle clouded last night. The apparent overwhelming sentiment for a strike which was in evidence the day before was not quite so prominent and predictions were freely made that whatever the delegates in the convention determine upon the winning side will have only a bare majority.

President Mitchell and his fellow officials still maintain their silence and every attempt that has been made to get their opinion of the situation has proved futile. The indications are, however, that the delegates favoring a strike are still in the majority and will win their fight in the convention.

Springfield Miners at Work. Springfield, Ill., May 14.—The operators in the Springfield subdistrict, the only subdistrict in Illinois in which an agreement has not been reached, have secured a postponement of the contemplated strike by an appeal to the national president of the miners.

Upon the unconstitutionality of the demands of the miners the operators have appealed to President Mitchell and he has granted them a temporary postponement of the strike pending further investigation.

A committee of miners and one of operators will go to Hazleton Saturday, where they will confer with President Mitchell. An order was issued to all locals in this district telling them to keep their members at work. This order was issued at the instance of President Russell, state president of the United Mineworkers of Illinois.

RE-TRIAL OF RATHBONE

President Orders a New Hearing for Cuban Postal Officer.

Washington, May 14.—Senator Hanna has won his fight, and Estes G. Rathbone will have a new trial at Havana. Announcement to this effect was made at the White House after the cabinet meeting of Tuesday. President Roosevelt will grant the Cuban Court of Appeals authority to give Rathbone a re-hearing, even to the extent of admitting any new evidence that may be offered. Senator Hanna is confident that a re-hearing will result in a vindication of Rathbone.

President Roosevelt, Secretary Root and Attorney General Knox have given careful consideration to this case, and all have become convinced that there is a reasonable doubt as to Rathbone's guilt and that the ends of justice demand a re-hearing. Rathbone was really convicted upon the testimony of Reeves, and inasmuch as Reeves had tacitly been promised a pardon and had also confessed that he himself had been guilty of fraud the president and his advisers think his testimony should be taken with a few grains of salt.

Senator Hanna boldly charges that Governor Wood used all of his influence to secure the conviction of Rathbone and that the court consciously or unconsciously responded to his will. This is not admitted by the President, and it is desired that the decision to authorize the Court of Appeals to take up the case is in no wise to be construed as a reflection upon the administration of Governor Wood.

NEW SPECIFICATIONS

Postmaster Nowlan Receives Them Tuesday.—Changes Noted. The new plans and specifications for the post-office building arrived yesterday. Postmaster O. F. Nowlan has only had time to give the specifications a hurried going-over, so could not state all the changes in the original plans. The main difference he noted was that a large quantity of the marble work had been cut out and wood substituted for it. They also did away with a large amount of iron work and substituted wood. Many of the rafters and beams have been changed to wood where the first specifications called for iron.

Salary Increased

The salary of the postmaster after July 1 will be increased $1100 per year. The present salary is $2,700 and the increase will be a welcome addition. Thirty-three offices in the state received an increase of from $100 to $200. The salary of the postmaster at Racine was reduced $100.

No half breed policy goes. Mr. Parr is said to have some strength in the northern part of the state.

WHAT LA FOLLETTE'S ICE BILL DID FOR THE WORKINGMAN

God's Patient Poor Suffered That Political Ambition Might Be Satisfied—Thousands of Dollars Lost to Labor This Past Winter.

The following affidavit on the results of the Ice Tax bill, will be read with interest. It deals with ice cold facts that no glad hand or patent smile can overcome.

Ice is not a hand-made product. The only value it has is in the labor that is put into it in the cutting and harvesting. Thus this ice tax amounts to merely this: It compels persons living south of Wisconsin to pay into our state treasury ten cents per ton for every ton of ice shipped out of the state. We are all glad to have money come into the state treasury from residents of other states, but where does this money really come from? Dane county has been having hundreds of thousands of tons of ice shipped from its lakes every year. What is the record this year, since this law has been in force? Here is the sworn statement of G. Scott Lawrence, a citizen of the town of Madison, Dane county, who has been employed for years by companies in Illinois and elsewhere to superintend the harvesting of ice here from our lakes:

"STATE OF WISCONSIN—Dane County—ss. "G. Scott Lawrence, being duly sworn, says, I am a resident of the town of Madison, and have been employed by the Knickerbocker Ice Co. for seven years, for the last four years being superintendent of all ice shipping and harvesting for said company in Dane County from lakes Monona, Waubesa and Kegonsa. "During the season of 1900-1901, before the Ice Tax Law was enacted, the company employed 135 men for 97 days at the Lake Wingra ice-house, at from $1.50 to $2.50 per day, while during the past season it employed 71 men for 23 days.

"During the season of 1900-1901 the company filled its house at Lake Wingra, while the past season only a little over one-third has been filled. No ice whatsoever being put in or shipped by the company from Monona or Waubesa.

"During the past season but a very small amount of ice was shipped from Dane county out of the state by other ice companies. One company, Each Bros. & Rabe, who have heretofore shipped large amounts of ice from Dane county in past years, did not ship or store any ice from Dane county during the past season. "The Knickerbocker company has a large number of ice houses and ice shipping plants in this state, and I am informed that the amount paid for labor during the past season has been over $90,000 less than during the season of 1900-1901. "I know the class of men who are employed in harvesting and cutting ice are for the most part largely dependent for their living on day labor, and that in Dane county alone many of these men have been idle much of the time during the past season.

"Subscribed and sworn to before me this 22d day of March, 1902. "S. M. JACOBS, Notary Public, Wis. From the above it can be readily ascertained what the ice law means to the laboring men financially. The loss to them, in wages, in Dane county alone from this one company, is over $12,000, the company paying from $1.50 to $2.50 per day. This does not, nor do the figures in Mr. Lawrence's affidavit, include any other concern in the ice business. But this is not all; food and hay are large items in the business. For every three cars of ice shipped, one ton of hay is absolutely necessary. All this was purchased of the farmers.

Yes, it is true if this law is held constitutional, the state treasury will get that 10 cents per ton from outsiders, but for every dollar that is so collected, hundreds are taken right out of the pockets of the men and boys who have for years tided over the winter months, otherwise employed, by working on the ice. And the farmer has lost an excellent market for his marsh hay, all to enrich the state treasury. On May 15, 1901, Governor LaFollette approved this bill and it became a law, which is published as Chapter 470 of the laws of 1901. Senator John M. Whitehead of Janesville, voted against this bill. See page 1057 of the State Journal.

NUMBER OF DEAD ARE INCREASING

Word From St. Vincent Shows Death Rate is Growing—Country All Destroyed.

London, May 13.—Secretary Chamberlain last night received the following cablegram from the governor of the Windward Islands regarding the condition of the island of St. Vincent. The dispatch dated St. Vincent says: "I arrived yesterday and found the state of affairs much worse than had been given in the reports forwarded by the administration. The country in the east coast between Robin Rock and Georgetown was apparently struck and devastated in a manner similar to St. Pierre. I fear that practically all living things are killed. The dead probably will reach sixteen hundred but the exact number will never be known. Managers and owners of the estates and their families and several of the better class are killed. Thousands of bodies are found and have been buried. One hundred and sixty have been sent to the hospital at Georgetown. Of this number probably six will recover. The details are too harrowing to describe. All beet sugar estates in the Caribou country have been devastated and the cattle are dead. The eruption continues, but apparently is moderating. Great anxiety is still felt."

While in Center the governor was the guest of G. U. Fisher and in the evening a love feast was held at Mr. Fisher's house at which there was a gathering of the faithful from all parts of the town. Several of the Half-Breeds from Janesville were present and held a conference with the governor as to the best means of building up his lost popularity there.

The state executive came down from Madison on the early morning train on the Northwestern to Evansville where he was met by Mr. Fisher and driven to Center. After spending the day he was driven back to Evansville and caught the late train into Madison.

That the governor should drop into Rock county, which has been claimed by his followers from the start and make a personal canvass of the town which has been his stronghold and has been conceded to him, shows that he is afraid that he is losing his power even there.

Last Thursday Gov. LaFollette left Madison on horseback, for his cottage at Lake Kegonsa. His secretary, Jerre Murphy, told all visitors that the Governor had ridden down to Mrs. LaFollette and the children for a rest. That he was worn out and would not be back until Saturday.

We next hear of the worn-out executive taking a hard drive across country and arriving at a station on the Northwestern road that would permit him to reach Evansville Friday. With all secrecy the plans had been laid and only a chosen few knew of the near presence of the Governor to the seat of war. He came quietly and invaded a territory that his followers have claimed all along as theirs, with all the secrecy possible and then left as quietly as he came, as though ashamed of its being known that he was in Rock county seeking what his followers have claimed—votes.

The third dispatch was from the Brooklyn Navy Yard and says: "The Cruiser Buffalo is ready to sail for Martinique on two hours' notice." Consul Ayme at Martinique in answer to inquiry of Hay of yesterday as to whether fresh water was needed in Martinique said No.

Other towns along the line have taken the matter up and are circulating petitions requesting the Northwestern to put on such a train for the accommodation of the Sunday travel during the summer months.

A train leaving here Sunday morning would give people who wished to spend the day in the country around here some of the numerous lakes north of here a chance to get out and enjoy themselves.

The Northwestern ran such a train for two years and it was well patronized by Sunday pleasure seekers and people wishing to go to Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Milwaukee and other cities.

STEVENS BILL IS ANALYZED

Senator Whitehead Shows The Measure In Its True Light.

ALLEGED PURPOSE

Is Concealed Under Skillful Words and Clauses To Fool Voters—Its Faults.

DANGEROUS POWER

Senator Whitehead presents to the voters of the state his sixth letter on the political situation. He defines more clearly than ever the issues of the day and shows up the fallacies of the Stevens Bill that was meant to reform politics and not make them more complicated than they are at present.

The Senator shows clearly the faults of the bill and how it is made to promote the interests of a clique instead of purifying the political situation of state or national politics. His letter clearly shows that the taking of the power out of the hands of what is termed the present gang, is only to jeopardize the entire interests to a new machine that would spring up and swallow all the voters' rights. He says:

Janesville, Wis., May 13, 1902 To The Gazette:

So much has been said in regard to restoring to the people the political power which had been taken from them, to adopting political methods, which would enable the people to execute their own political will and to placing the voters in direct control of all the affairs of the political parties to which they belonged, that we should not have expected to find, in the Stevens Bill, a provision like the following:

"Section 26. The county chairman at their meeting to canvass the vote for state officers, shall, in the proper years, choose by ballot the electors of their party for president and vice president. The names of the persons so selected shall be placed upon the official ballot, as now provided by law."

Under this section, in the year of a national election, when the county chairmen of a party were to meet as a state canvassing board, they were constituted ex-officio, a nominating convention to propose candidates for Presidential electors. Their selections (nominees) were to be placed upon the official ballot. In this connection let me call attention to the provision of section 29, relating to the selection of delegates to national conventions at a primary election held in April of a Presidential year. The required number of persons receiving the highest number of votes were to be delegates at large or from the Congressional district, as the case might be, and an equal number of those receiving the next highest number of votes were to be the alternates, except that there was no choice of an alternate declared unless he had at least two per cent. of his proper party vote. If under this rule, there were a failure to elect alternates, the delegates elected were to choose alternates. Here are two sections relating to national party politics, and four different ways of doing things proposed to be done.

1. An ex-officio convention to nominate Presidential electors; (2) a primary election to select delegates to the national convention; (3) a selection of alternate delegates by a conditional choice at the primary election; (4) a selection of alternates by delegates acting ex-officio.

Here is another surprise from the bill: Section 27. The candidates for the various state offices, and for senate and assembly nominated by each political party at such primary election, shall meet in the assembly chamber at the capitol at twelve o'clock noon, on the second Wednesday after the date on which any primary election is held preliminary to any general election. They shall adjourn to suitable places in the capitol building, where they shall forthwith meet and formulate the state platform of their party. The chairman and secretary of the state central committee of each party shall act as chairman and secretary of such meeting. Said platform shall be adopted by a majority of all candidates voting at such meeting, by roll call, the record of which shall be filed and preserved by the secretary of the state. The platform of each party shall be framed at such time that it shall be made public, not later than six o'clock in the afternoon of the following day (the afternoon of the second Thursday after primary election day.)

This section provided for a biennial party convention, made up ex-officio of the candidates for the various state offices and for senate and assembly. The officers of this convention were to be the chairman and secretary of the party state central committee. Notwithstanding the claim made by the friends of the bill that "this government based absolutely upon the idea that the people can be trusted to determine public questions, so far as that is a physical possibility," the time honored custom of political parties in this state which had always prevailed in delegate conventions of framing

SONS OF NORWAY WILL CELEBRATE

May 17 is their National Holiday, and All Loyal Norsemen Will Rejoice.

The residents of Janesville and vicinity who are of Norwegian birth or parentage are making extensive preparations for the celebration of May 17, the national holiday of Norway.

The festivities that are to be held by Norwegians all over the United States as well as at home this year will surpass by far any of the previous years, for not only have the Norwegians an additional reason for making merry on account of having obtained a flag of their own for the merchant marine, but the women are preparing to celebrate female suffrage that has just been granted in Norway in municipal matters.

During years past the Norwegians have been making strenuous efforts to obtain permission to use their own flag in the foreign service. This flag has been recently granted to them and is of a red ground with a blue cross over a white cross in the center. Formerly the colors of the union were in the center. These colors were yellow and blue in addition to the red and white in the right hand upper corner.

The law just passed in the Storting allows females of age, who pay taxes on 30 kroner ($81) in the city and taxes on 400 kroner in the country, to vote on all municipal matters. These additions are thought to be of great importance by the Norwegians, and letters from the old country dwell on the elaborate preparations that are being made to celebrate the two concessions just obtained.

TRUSTS' AGENTS VISIT THE CITY

Cigar Manufacturers Here Are Being Hard Pressed To Meet The Trust Prices.

Certain local cigar manufacturers are anything but pleased over the invasion here of agents representing the big tobacco trust—The American Tobacco Company.

To certain local retail cigar dealers the trust's agents have offered 1,000 cigars and 25 pounds of smoking tobacco for $33.

At this price it would make the cigars stand the retailer at about $25.

At this low price local manufacturers claim that they can not make a good grade of cigars to retail at 5 cents each.

Said a local manufacturer to a Gazette man yesterday: "I don't know where this cutting of wholesale prices on cigars will end, but I do know now that the trust has already cut the price so that there is just barely a living in it for me. The only way out of it is for the public to quit smoking trust made cigars."

BAPTISTS HAVE BIG RECEPTION

Celebrate Result of Rev. Vaughan's Pastorate by Entertaining New Members.

"By their fruits ye shall know them." If this test were applied to the results of the first year of the pastorate of the Rev. Richmond M. Vaughan, of the First Baptist church, it would prove equally satisfactory to the members of the society and the worthy pastor.

The duties of Rev. Vaughan as pastor of the First Baptist church of this city began on the 9th day of May, 1901 and his earnest and well directed efforts resulted in the adding of seventy-five new members to the church society. During the same time there have been twenty-four removals by death and other causes, leaving a net gain of fifty-one in membership, a truly fruitful year's work.

Last evening at the parlors of the church the older members tendered a reception to the members who had joined the church since Rev. Vaughan became the pastor and a most royal reception it was indeed. As the air of a conservatory is heavily laden with the perfume of many flowers, so the air of the church was laden with the spirit of the purest good will and friendship.

The parlors were very attractively decorated with the national colors and the emblem of freedom was seen on all sides. On entering the church each guest was presented with a shipping tag on which was printed the words: "Non-perishable. Do not keep in a cool place. Name. (Here was a blank line for the guest's name. Consigned to the First Baptist church, Janesville, Wis. Reception to new members, May 13, 1902. Many members yet one body. Paul." This tag was tied to the garments of each guest with a tiny ribbon.

After music by an orchestra of ten pieces remarks were made by Mrs. Amanda Herkimer, Judge B. F. Dunwiddle, Jessie Butler and Rev. R. M. Vaughan. The remarks were varied in nature and tended to nourish the good feeling manifested on all sides. At the close of the remarks of Rev. Vaughan, the ladies of the church served coffee and doughnuts to all present.

LINCOLN CONSPIRATOR DEAD

Mortimer Ruggles, Who Aided Booth to Escape—Dead

With the death of Mortimer Bainbridge Ruggles, of Virginia, the last of the conspirators who aided Wilkes Booth in his murderous attack on President Lincoln and subsequent vain attempt to escape, passes into the great beyond. Ruggles died on Friday in New York of dropsy. Since the war of the rebellion Mr. Ruggles has lived in New York, seldom if ever going back to his former Virginia home.

At the time of President Lincoln's assassination Ruggles was an aid on his father's staff, General F. Ruggles of the Confederate army. He was arrested on the charge of aiding Wilkes Booth in his attempt to escape and with Mrs. Surratt and others was sentenced to death. Under the general proclamation of amnesty he was given his liberty. His gratitude at being spared the humiliating death of Booth was supreme and he at once took the oath of allegiance and has since then made his home in the North.

THE STEVENS BILL BEING ANALYZED

platforms before candidates were nominated, was set aside and its place filled by an ex-officio convention to be held at regular intervals under the law, where the candidates themselves were placed in supreme authority, and "authorized to formulate the state platform of their party."

Here is a provision from the bill, all unlooked for, relating to a third ex-officio party convention:

Section 28. The congressional committee of each district shall meet with the nominee at the call of its chairman as soon as may be, after the nomination has been declared, and formulate a platform for such congressional nominee and district."

This was the smallest of the three stated party conventions provided for in the bill to which I have called attention. It was to be held "to formulate a platform for the congressional nominee," and his district. In view of the control given to the candidate for congress over his district committee, under section 24, of the bill, to which I have called attention in a former communication, it is fair to presume that the meetings of his conventions would be characterized by unanimity of thought and action. The cumulative proxy voting of the members of the city, county, assembly and state central committees was a feature of the bill which I should call convention-like. It was, to say the least, a most interesting addition to the "powers usually exercised by such committees."

In all meetings of the central committee of the city, county or assembly district, "one vote for every 25 voters or major fraction thereof, cast by his party in his precinct (election district, at the last general election," was allowed. Each of such committees was allowed at least one vote, regardless of the size of his party vote in his county or election district. I have not been able to reconcile this excess of voting power vested in these central committees with any accepted exposition of the much talked-of platform pledge, or with any deliverance of the recognized authorities on the Stevens Bill, which have come to my knowledge. With an illustration which may furnish food for thought, I leave it. It is understood that the basis of representation in the next Republican State Convention is one delegate for every 250 votes or major fraction thereof, cast at the last general election in the district sending the delegate. In Rock County there were 6,249 votes cast for the last republican Presidential candidate. Accordingly, about 34 delegates will be accredited to Rock County in the next State Convention, so that 34 men will cast one vote each to represent 5,249 Republican voters. In a meeting of the state central committee, held under section 24 of the Stevens Bill, one committeeman might have cast 32 votes to represent the same number of Rock County Republicans. This I should call one of the "absolutely new provisions," of which there were admitted to be "some" in the Stevens Bill.

The Stevens Bill presented, in the main, three propositions: (1) A plan of selecting nominees to be voted for at the primary election; (2) a form of ballot to be used and a method to be pursued at the primary election; (3) a party committee system. I have addressed myself in this discussion thus far to these three propositions, without calling attention to the clerical matters or details necessarily found in a bill of this general scope. I tried to understand the bill when its three-fold character was under consideration in the legislature, and to foresee what would be the outcome were three such propositions once incorporated into our law.

From the beginning to the end of the discussion of the bill, any one of these propositions was held to be quite as indispensable as the other two. It was urged that, if either one of these propositions were rejected, the whole bill was emasculated. A primary election system had been presented, said the friends of the bill, for acceptance or rejection as a whole. The speaker who opened the debate used these words:

"We ask that the Stevens Bill be passed substantially in its present form. Then he sounded this note of warning:

"It should not be poisoned by amendments destroying its force, or limiting its scope."

And with his next breath he urged:

"If this proposed law has enemies in this legislature or out of it, who believe that it is not based upon sound principles, let them stand out in the open and fight it squarely. They have a right to their opinions. If they were loyal to their convictions, they will consent to no compromise."

It was in the air that no compromise bill would ever be offered, or considered, or accepted. The issue was joined on the Stevens Bill, as offering a primary election system, simple, inexpensive, complete, which would overthrow the "machine," purify politics, and elevate the general character of the men called to the management of public affairs. I have found it necessary to refer to these claims made for the bill by its friends and to quote some of the utterances of the advocates of the bill, and in so doing, I have been actuated by no capricious spirit I have tried merely to carry out the purpose which I set for myself at the beginning,—to bring to light all the facts within my knowledge relating to the Stevens Bill and to the controversy which sprung up over it in the last legislature.

Diary of a Citizen.

We are trying a new plan at our house. We are now on a vegetarian basis. I do not like it very well but it is a hobby of my wife's and I find it is best to humor her.

We have baked hay with cream in the morning. My wife calls it some sort of shredded biscuit but I guess I know a biscuit when I see one. The stuff looks like hay and since tasting it I have felt more sympathy with a cow than ever.

We had fruit soup for dinner. This was very nourishing. I think the two spoonful which I took will last me for a month. It is also tenacious. I can taste it yet. ...ward we had more hay, soaked and boiled this time with medicated raspberries on it, and some granos and nuttose sweetened with glucose. I suppose, and a kind of cereal coffee. It is made of burnt bread crust, as nearly as I could figure and when strengthened with hot water and cream. When I want to resign myself to death, I will drink some more of this coffee.

I am going home to supper. It do not feel hungry, but my wife expects me. We are to have grape-nuts for supper she says.

SKIN DISEASES

The skin is provided with millions of little pores and glands invisible to the natural eye, yet through these tiny outlets the larger part of the deadly matter that daily collects in the body is carried off. But nature never intended that poisons of an irritating or acid character should be eliminated through the skin, the Liver and Kidneys being their natural outlets, and it is when these important organs fail to perform their functions that these acid poisons are absorbed into the blood and find their way to the surface of the body through the pores and glands of the skin, producing intense itching and burning, inflammation and swelling, and eruptions of every conceivable size, shape and character.

Skin Diseases differ greatly in their general characteristics and degrees of intensity. Red and angry looking spots break out upon some part of the body with a mass of small pustules or blisters, from which is discharged a clear or straw colored fluid, which dries and flakes off in bran-like particles and scales, or forms into hard and painful sores and scabs. The skin often hardens and dries, cracks and bleeds from the effects of the fiery acids, which the blood is continually throwing off. Pimples, blackheads and blotches are evidences of a too acid blood, which has become inflamed and clogged the pores.

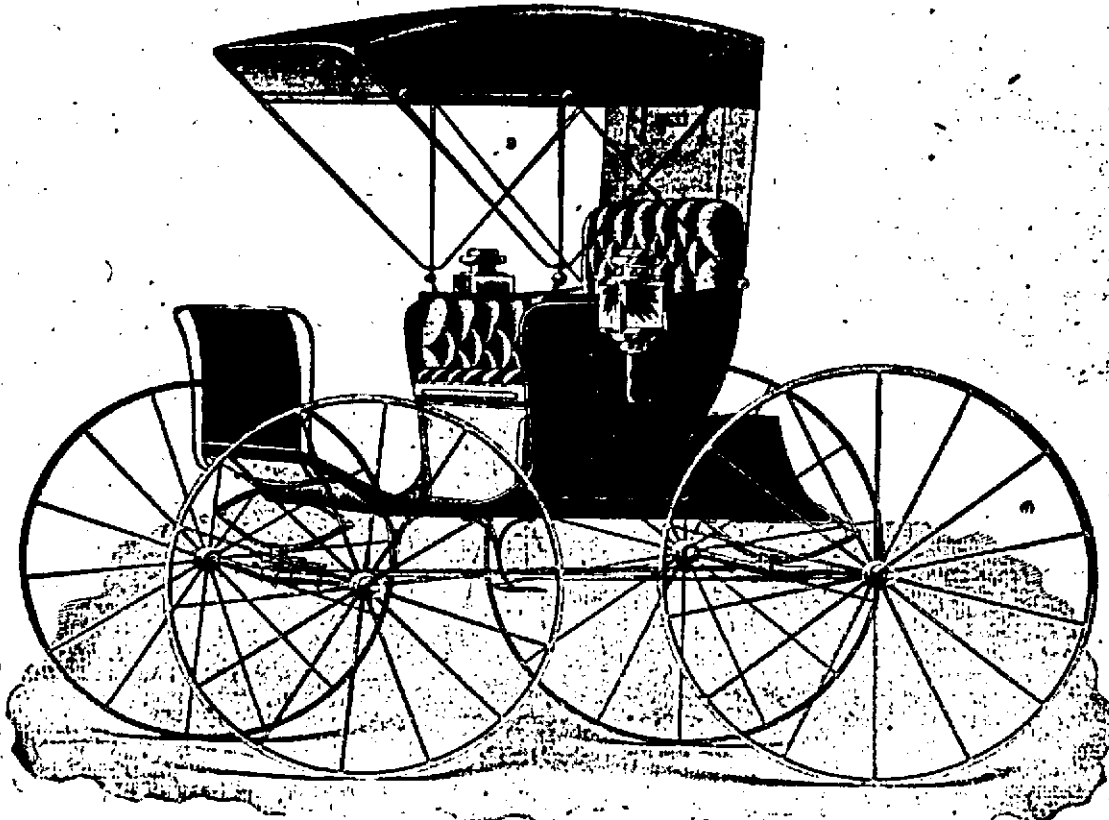

Skin Diseases being dependent upon the same causes require the same treatment, which must be constitutional and not external. Nothing applied locally to the inflamed surface can bring much relief. The disfiguring eruptions will continue to annoy and pain you in spite of soaps, washes or powders. There is no hope of getting rid of a skin disease except through the purification of the depreciated blood and neutralizing and filtering out of the circulation all poisonous substances and acids.

The purifying and tonic properties of S. S. S. soon manifest their influence in skin affections; the debilitated system is invigorated and toned up, and the gradual disappearance of the eruptions show that the polluted blood is being brought back to its natural purity and strength. Old chronic skin disorders, which have resisted all the ordinary methods of treatment, readily yield to the curative powers of S. S. S., and there is no reason why the long time sufferer should feel resigned to his fate under the mistaken idea that some skin diseases are incurable, for S. S. S. has cured and is still curing cases perhaps far more desperate than yours. S. S. S. is a purely vegetable remedy, containing no Potash, Arsenic or any of the poisonous drugs which constitute the basis of so many so-called skin cures.

Our Medical Department has been of the greatest assistance to thousands seeking relief from blood and skin troubles. Write us fully about your case, and our physicians will help you, for which no charge whatever is made. Our illustrated Book on Skin Diseases will be sent free to all who write for it.

CHILD LABOR IN THE SOUTH

The last number of the "Pillistine" contains a chapter of horror, relating to conditions of child labor in the South, that should arouse a spirit of righteous indignation throughout the land. Mr. Hubbard, the editor of the magazine, visited the section and his recital is based on observation. While he may be eccentric as a writer, he is noted for truthfulness of narrative, and what he has to say about child labor in the cotton mills of South Carolina, is well worth considering.

There are five states in which child labor is not regulated by law and South Carolina is one of them. When the mill owners of Massachusetts, decided a few years ago, to transfer their manufacturing industry to the southern states, the argument used, was that the mill should be located near the raw material, to save transportation charges. This was a plausible argument, but according to Mr. Hubbard, was not the principle reason. The New England state is noted for humane laws, that do not exist in the South and the mill men discovered that a plant costing $1,000,000 with a pay roll of $6,000 per week, in the east, could be operated for $4,000 per week in South Carolina, and the $100,000 per year saved, would pay a 10 per cent dividend. There are today seven of these mills located in the vicinity of Columbus, S. C., and an army of children from five to twelve years of age, are being murdered by inches to gratify New England greed. The children belong to what is known as the "white trash" of the South.

Employment agencies canvass the state, and wherever they find the family of a "cracker," which usually means from half a dozen to a dozen children, a contract is made with the head of the house, to furnish employment for five years, to the mother and children. The offer is alluring and seldom fails to induce the man to move into town, occupy a company house, all expenses being paid by the agent. Then the life of bondage begins. The father becomes a saloon loafer, while the mother and children commence a life of servitude, that is without parallel in this enlightened land.

From six o'clock in the morning, until six at night, this little army of toilers are confined within the walls of the great mills, where the noisy clatter of machinery deadens sensibilities, and speedily transforms the child into a wisened bit of clay, performing its monotonous task like an automaton. When the dinner hour comes, the little tots gather in groups and sitting on the floor, devour a pittance of corn cake and then topple over in sleep, to be aroused to consciousness a little later, by a rough voice, or a boot if necessary.

A few months of this sort of inhumanity, and the child is no longer a child, but just a lump of clay, ready to give up the spark of life and the journey to the grave yard is the only bright thing in prospect. He is ready to go at a moment's notice and he frequently departs.

Many of the mills have company stores. The family is charged with rent, insurance and taxes, and by the time the father has satisfied his appetite for whiskey, the larder is empty, and the children die by the score of toll and starvation.

This is no fairy tale, and according to Mr. Hubbard, who has been on the ground, the picture is not overdrawn. Every paper in the land should ventilate the outrage, until the state of South Carolina and every other state in the Union, is compelled to pass laws that will protect innocent children from such dastardly outrages. Southern slavery was regarded as a national sin, but it is safe to say, that in its palmy days it never equaled the bondage that exists today in the cotton manufacturing districts of the same section. There is plenty of room for missionary work and philanthropy on this side the water and it is high time that intelligent attention was directed to home civilization.

FAMILIARITY WITH DANGER

The St. Pierre horror, in the island of Martinique is on every tongue. The destruction of the city, and the sudden death which came to the entire population, is without parallel in the annals of recent history. After the first shock of the disaster, there will be much discussion regarding the cause, and people are already saying, why did not the inhabitants of the ill-fated city, heed the warning? Letters to friends in various parts of the country relate the fact that the slumbering volcano had been rumbling with notes of warning, for weeks before the final outbreak, yet no particular alarm was felt.

It is the same old story of familiarity with danger. The same conditions existed in a lesser degree at Galveston. The tidal wave, the volcano, and earthquake, are exhibitions of nature's forces let loose for a day. People camp on the trail of these hidden forces, build homes and create cities, with a feeling of security that is always difficult to understand. It is more than likely that the city of St. Pierre will be rebuilt, as soon as the ruins cool, and in a few years another city will rest in fancied security at the base of the same dangerous mountain.

Nature is very liberal in distributing her bounties, and there is only here and there a spot where safe habitation is not possible; and where the soil does not respond to cultivation, but there are a few breathing places where the pent up forces are in possession, and the title should be undisputed. The neighborhood of a volcano is one of them, and the sandy beach, practically on the sea level is another. There is room enough for humanity, outside of these localities and common sense should prevent people from defying forces which are beyond human control.

The destruction of St. Pierre, and the Galveston disaster are in no sense dispensations of providence. The island of Montinque is of volcanic construction and tidal waves have raged over the Galveston beach long before the city was thought of.

The man who defies the forces of nature is responsible for results, and while the day of retribution may be tardy, and familiarity may furnish a sense of security, yet calamity is the natural consequence. If France has any use for the island of Martinique, she had better remove her commercial possessions and turn the territory back to nature for a play ground. The island is unsafe for residence, and it is fool hardy to defy the forces of nature.

WHAT IT COST THE STATE.

In another part of the paper will be found an affidavit from G. Scott Lawrence, the Dane county manager of the Knickerbocker Ice Company. The figures furnished by Mr. Lawrence are interesting and instructive. The ice tax was declared a farce by the Supreme court, but not until after harm was done, so far as the past winter's crop was concerned. The governor's mistake cost Dane county alone many thousands of dollars and caused "God's patient poor" unnecessary hardships.

The veto of the Frost mortgage bill is another evidence of incompetency that should not be overlooked. This bill provided that the farmer who had a mortgage on his farm should be taxed for his equity, while the man who held the mortgage should pay the tax on the money loaned. The proposition was so fair and it passed both houses, and yet the Governor vetoed it on the ground of unconstitutionality, without an effort to save it, and all because he was so absorbed in the primary law, that nothing else was given attention.

If there is any good argument why this man should ever have been honored with high official position, it does not appear on the surface, and if there is any reason why he should be retained in office, it has yet to be stated. Wisconsin has but little use for a demagogue.

CONCERNING "THAT" SPEECH

The hand-book says that Senator Bissell went to Madison purposely to have Bob deliver "that" speech in Lodi. The speech referred to was at the time of the Woodman picnic in Lodi, and was a political, spread-eagle batch of stuff. When the hand-book asked for "that" speech says Senator Bissell, an untruth is told. Senator Bissell did go to Madison to secure Mr. LaFollette as speaker, but could not get him to talk unless the committee would allow him to talk on politics. It was confidently expected by the large gathering that the speech would deal largely with the order of Modern Woodmen, but save for a few brief sentences at the start, Bob did not mention Woodcraft. He did take off his coat and vest, collar and necktie, and unmercifully pitched into the corporations and railroads, thereby disgusting several who were of the opinion that his speech was out of touch with the real object of the gathering. And after that really great effort Bob would consent to make terms with corporations, and ride a special train at the re-numerative figure (to the railroads) of $56.55 per day. Consistent, isn't he?—Lodi Enterprise.

Labor says that Chicago shall have no more gas under present conditions. The Windy City appears to be up against the real thing.

Instantaneous death is not an unmixed evil. From the latest accounts, the victims of St. Pierre were not tortured by prolonged suffering.

There is no tax on ice and no ice to tax. The consumer pays the freight and the governor is welcome to the glory.

If Lettsch carries Columbia county and LaFollette Dane, where will Dahle and Cully Adams come in?

It is a good time to get away from the volcanic district and it will be a good plan to keep out of the territory indefinitely.

The one mill tax is not a dream, neither is it a nightmare. It has hoofs and horns, and costs money.

The Frost mortgage bill, was nipped in the bud by an ever watchful chief executive.

The President in his prompt action for the relief of sufferers in Montinque, voices the sentiment of American people. Congress has already appropriated $200,000 and a vessel is assigned to the service and is now on the way. France will find a willing ally in American generosity.

It is fortunate for the country that the coal miners delayed their strike until warm weather.

There promises to be an eruption in Dane county, when Dahle gets in his work.

PRESS COMMENT.

Hartland News: Gov. La Follette evidently looks on Norwegians as mere merchandise, judging in the manner he is trying to trade of Dahle for the support of Columbia county.

Oshkosh Northwestern: It is probable that the Kansas editor who wrote an article denouncing the beef trust, which through an error of the printer came out in the paper against the "beef trust, made a great hit among his prohibition patrons. But he was hardly entitled to the credit.

Every farmer in Dane County knows that his taxes were higher this year than for several years past. No one specific act can be credited to Gov. La Follette wherein he made an effort to reduce them.—Mazomanie Sickle.

There is lack of harmony in the ranks of La Follette supporters in Milwaukee and we should not be surprised to hear that the machine there has abandoned. The republican voters in the metropolis seem to be very much tired of the factional fight that has been there in the interests of one man at the expense of the welfare of the party. The party is greater than the man and La Follette will have to give way.—Reedsburg Free Press.

Racine Journal: Numbers of candidates are coming out of the minor state offices and appealing to the consideration of the voters. One lack of the announcements so far of the different candidates is that they omit to label themselves whether La Follette or anti-La Follette. The candidates can do no dodging they will have to be duly labeled.

BRODE-ECHLIN MARRIAGE TODAY

SOLEMNIZED AMID A BOWER OF BEAUTY AT BRIDE'S HOME,

They Will Reside in Los Angeles, Leaving This Evening—Both Bride and Groom Well Known in Janesville—Services Impressive and Beautiful—Many Presents.

At half after four o'clock this afternoon Miss Jessie Echlin, of this city, and Luther D. Brode, of Los Angeles, Cal., entered together upon life's happiest and most sacred obligations, the ceremony which made them man and wife being solemnized at the pleasant home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Echlin at 56 Mineral Point avenue.

The wedding, though characterized by simplicity in every detail, was one of impressive beauty and it was amid the most auspicious surroundings that the marriage vows were spoken. The ceremony was witnessed by a company of about seventy-five relatives and intimate friends of the contracting parties.

The decorations were of the most beautiful and the guests were assembled in a handsomely decorated with roses, smilax, ferns and potted palms. Deep red roses adorned the front parlor while the parlor in which the ceremony took place was especially beautiful in a profusion of white and green, the flowers used being roses and lilacs of the valley.

Promptly at half-past four the familiar melody of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Smith's orchestra, floated through the parlors and to its music the bridal party descended the stairs.

The bride was accompanied by her father and they were preceded by the groom and the officiating clergyman, Rev. Robert C. Denison, pastor of the First Congregational church.

The bride was most becomingly attired in a dainty and stylish gown of white organdy, elaborately tucked and trimmed with costly lace. She carried a large bouquet of bride's roses. During the ceremony the bride party stood in front of an effective setting of rich green foliage. The deep bay window was banked high with palms in front of which curtains of delicate strands of smilax were looped back gracefully.

An impressive ceremony. The ceremony was especially impressive and beautiful, the full service of the church of England being used and taking on new grace from the officiating clergyman's personality. During the plight of the troth, the exchange of vows with the wedding ring as the symbol and until Rev. Denison had spoken the words which made the young people husband and wife, there was the accompaniment of beautiful music, softly played by the orchestra.

A wedding supper. After the ceremony a delicious wedding supper was served by Misses Ada Cressett, Helen Menzies, Jessie Spoon, Grace Spoon, Mabel Lee, Grace Bladen and May Felton, of Janesville, and Misses Katherine Van Akin and Lella Kelsey, of Beloit. Mrs. Louise Dowerman, was in charge and the bridal table was decorated with a large basket of pink roses and ferns for the center piece and ropes of smilax looped from the chandelier to the corners of the table.

To Live in California. By this marriage, Janesville loses one of its most charming daughters, whose grace of manner has not only made her popular socially, but has won for her a host of personal friends whose best wishes will accompany her to her new home in the Golden State. The groom also has many friends in this city, where for two years he was the successful and popular instructor in the manual training department of the Janesville High school. He is now one of the prosperous business men of Los Angeles, being associated with his brother in the Brode Electric company.

Leave This Evening. Mr. and Mrs. Brode will leave for Chicago on the 7:15 train this evening and expect to go directly to Los Angeles, where they will go to house-keeping in a handsomely furnished home at 926 West Twenty-Sixth street.

Among the wedding guests from out of the city were Mrs. J. C. Erbe, Chicago; Misses Lou, Nell and Nellie Ever, Chicago; Lillian Allen, Polo, Ill.; Martha Shopbell, Edgerton and Katherine Van Akin and Lella Kelsey, Beloit.

Brierty-Slay. This morning at 7:30 o'clock Chas. Brierty led Margaret Slay to the marriage altar at St. Patrick's church. The happy couple were married with high mass, Rev. J. J. Collins performing the ceremony.

The altar was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and candles. The bride and groom were attended by Elizabeth Brierty, sister of the bride, and Walter Nolan, cousin of the bride.

Both the bride and her attendant were prettily gowned in white organdy and carried American Beauty roses.

After hearty congratulations the party repaired to the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. J. P. Heffernan, 277 S. Main street where a delicious wedding breakfast was served to about forty relatives and friends, whose esteem for the newly married couple was shown by their many handsome and valuable gifts to the bride.

Both the bride and groom are well and favorably known in Janesville and their many friends wish them prosperity and happiness in their married life.

Mr. and Mrs. Brierty left on the 10:35 train for Chicago and Rockford and after June 1 they will be at home to their friends in a cosily furnished house at 217 S. High St.

Mr. W. Homer Lee, of Freeport, Ill., has moved to Beloit and will be associated with Mr. J. W. Bradshaw in the Beloit Business college.

Added to this will be street scenes covering the business portion of the city, our public buildings, such as the new City Hall, Post Office, Court House, Churches and School Houses and a goodly number of the homes and residences of our citizens.

In fact the book will abound with pretty pictures from cover to cover, and will give to the people at home and abroad an idea of the resources and industries of a city of the size of Janesville.

Will Promote City.

There is nothing that promotes the interests of a city more than to have its principle points of interest finely illustrated in this manner and what promotes the interests of a city promotes the interests of every citizen within its limits.

The boys have spared neither time nor money to make this book a work of art and interest and a first-class advertising medium, and as it is published in the interest of their relief fund and the money thus obtained is to be used for the benefit of their sick and disabled members, it is deserving of the patronage of every right-minded and public spirited property owner or business man now within the city limits. Turn in and help the boys out and by each helping a little it can be made a grand success.

GOLF SEASON OPENS

Scoring For Places On the Team.

A number of the members of the Mississippi Golf club gathered at the links Monday afternoon and played their medal scores for position on the team. On account of not having a supper in the club house in the evening and making this match the opening event of the season, the handicap and games committee decided to extend the time for handing in the scores until May 20. All scores handed in up to that time when they are properly vouched for and on signed score-cards procured from the secretary will be received.

Those who handed in scores yesterday were: Collin C. MacLean, 89; Chas. Achterberg, 95; O. Sutherland, 97; J. P. Baker, 98; George Baumann 111.

Secretary Baker leaves Thursday morning for Milwaukee to attend a meeting of the directors of the Wisconsin Golf association. The directors will fix the dates and make all arrangements for the Wisconsin championship tournament which will be held in Milwaukee this year. No doubt the tournament will be held just before or just after the open tournament of the Milwaukee Country club.

The association is now in a flourishing condition and it is expected that many new clubs will join during the coming season.

Farewell Reception: A farewell meeting to Capt. and Mrs. Taylor of the Salvation Army will be tendered them at the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. this evening. Revs. Chas. Henderson, Vaughn and others of this city and Rev. Starkweather, of Milton Junction will speak.

Water Does Damage.

A clogged-up water-pipe in the third story of the opera house block last night caused the entire front of the house to be flooded. Manager Myers was notified of the trouble about 12 o'clock last night and it was after 2 o'clock before the water was cleared out. It ran down the stairways in the front of the building into the ticket office and the front of the theater, doing considerable damage.

In the ticket office everything was soaked. Tickets in the sale frame for Rose Coghlan were soaked and everything else about the ticket window received a severe wetting. The side walls of the theater, near the main entrance, were badly streaked and damaged. If the leak had not been discovered the whole house would have been flooded.

OUTSIDE OPINION OF HALF BREEDS

Record-Herald Comments on The McClughray Rumor He Will Be Removed.

The following clipping from the Chicago-Record Herald as to the McClughray rumor that he would ask for an increase in salary, shows that even outside of the state the methods of the powers that be are subject of criticism and censure. Mr. McClughray came to Wisconsin in 1899 from Indiana. He found the state prison in a run-down condition and by his consistent efforts has raised it until it ranks first among all the institutions of its kind in this country. On penal government he is considered authority in the east and in the west.

McClughray May Have To Go
"A Waupun dispatch says that Warden McClughray, of the state prison, denies that he has asked the state board of control for an increase in salary. He said that he knows the limitations of the law and made no demands, which would be preposterous. For all this it is believed that he will give place to another before long. If so, it will be due entirely to politics. When McClughray was brought to Waupun and placed in charge of the prison during Governor Scofield's term, there was a great outcry among the politicians, who had looked upon the wardenship as one of the state's plums. Governor Scofield and the state board paid no attention to this outcry, as they were looking for the best man for the place and they thought that they had found him. Since then the people of Waupun have not hidden their hostility toward the warden, nor has he taken any pains to make matters smoother. He takes the ground that he is there to make the prison the best of its kind and cares nothing for the politics of the situation. But the politicians do, and it is a safe bet that they will have his scalp before they are through with the game."

The will of the late Potter Palmer filed in probate in Chicago gives his estate equally to his widow and two sons, except for $200,000, which he gives for a woman's building on the Lake Front, providing the city gives the grounds.

The British steamer Camorta from Madras for Burma is eight days over due and fears for its safety are entertained.
